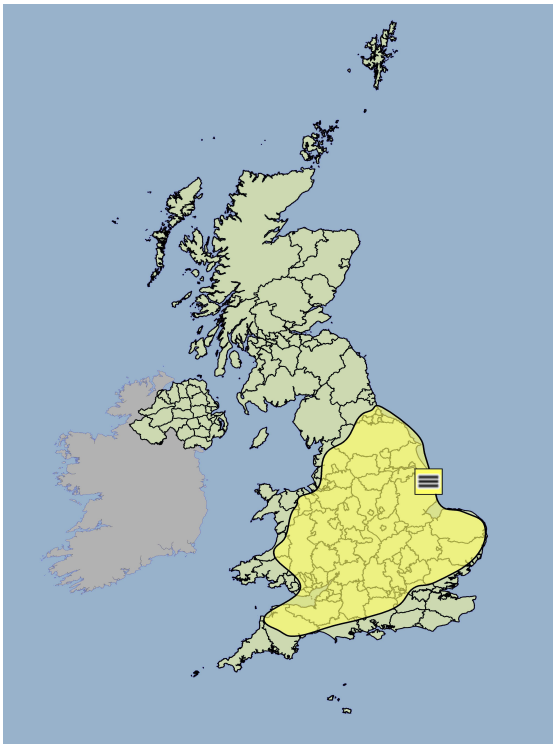
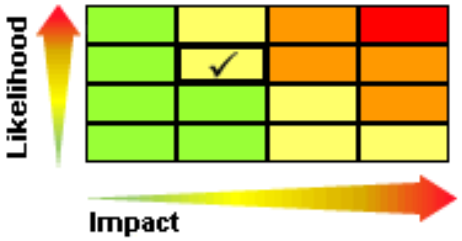
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Showers will fade away during Saturday evening, with clear skies and light winds a recipe for fog development overnight into Sunday. The fog will thin and lift into low cloud, but some patches may persist until late morning particularly across the Midlands and northern England.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Fog

Valid from 01:00 on Sun, 12th Oct 2014 until 11:00 on Sun, 12th Oct 2014

Areas of fog, locally dense, will develop during Saturday night, becoming more widespread around dawn on Sunday, before thinning slowly during the morning. The worst affected areas are likely to be low lying regions where the visibility may reduce to less than 100 metres in places, leading to difficult driving conditions and some disruption to travel.
